

Immigration Interpretation Bulletin #1

How New Immigration Rules Affect You:

Recruiters

March 1, 2012

Over the past few months, many changes have been made to how various groups can conduct business with Citizenship and Immigration Canada (CIC). This Interpretation Bulletin has been created to explain clearly what these new rules mean to Recruiters.

Immigration Advisory:

How does Bill C-35 affect Recruiters:

Bill C-35 made it an offence for anyone other than an Authorized Representative to offer immigration services for a fee. Authorized Representatives include: members in good standing of ICCRC (known as Regulated Canadian Immigration Consultants – RCICs), lawyers in good standing with a provincial or territorial law society and notaries who are members in good standing of the Chambre des notaires du Québec. For a list of RCICs, please visit this link - <http://www.icccrc-crcic.ca/public/membershiplistFull.cfm>.

What are the penalties?

Bill C-35 doubled the penalties from $50,000 to $100,000 and/or imprisonment of up to 2 years for conviction by indictment. Bill C-35 doubled the penalties from $10,000 to $20,000 and/or imprisonment for up to six months on summary conviction.

What Recruiters may do without being an Authorized Representative:

Conduct job interviews; make offers of employment; review job applications; provide translation services; provide courier services; provide medical services; make travel arrangements.

What Recruiters may not do unless they are an Authorized Representative:

Explain/provide immigration advice; complete immigration forms; communicate with CIC/CBSA on a client's behalf; represent clients in an immigration application or proceeding, or represent Employers in an Arranged Employment Opinion or Labour Market Opinion application.

How does ICCRC handle complaints?

ICCRC takes all complaints seriously. If we receive a complaint that a Recruiter is contravening these rules, ICCRC will collect further evidence, build a case, and submit it to the CBSA or the RCMP.
